Step 1 : create a menu linked to AlphaContent component

Step 2 : setting the component in admin panel and choose the sections/categories which you want to use.

Thank you very much for your kind and quick reply.

Sir, if i want to make sub categories what should i do.

For example, i have a category

"Software tools"

Microsoft tools    Adobe tools    Macromedia tools

.Net tools    Office tools    mislenious tools

i am able to only go till 2nd depth how can i go in more depth.

Thank you very much.

AlphaContent not use the subcategories because Joomla have not the subcategories !

This directory is built just from the sections and categories used by Joomla.

Is it possible to add more category depth by adding extra fields? If So Any php mysql guru can help us here. It will be greatly appreciated.

Thanks in advance for your effort to all the brothers and sisters who try to help others.

Sathy

Can you be explaining what you mean? You can add all your Joomla! categorys in AlphaContent if you want show that for in your frontend?

Like my testsite: http://i147.photobucket.com/albums/r301/Laketrout\_photos/alphaC.png

Mayby I'm not understand your question correctly?

Hello,

I have the same question as Sathy.

I would like to create more subcategories in AlphaContent like this:

Section 1
  Category 1
    Subcategory 1
      Subsubcategory 1

Is this possible?

greetings

Not possible. Just use the structure of sections/categories of Joomla.
