Users on my site want to be able to edit their comments, is this something that is possible?

I need to allow my users to do the same. It would be great to have functionality that would allow users to edit their comments from the frontend. This can already be done in the backend by the admin, is there a way to integrated this functionality for users on the frontend? For example, when a user is logged in and viewing an article that they have commented on it would be nice to have an edit link show up on their comments.

Is there a way to do this?

Thanks
